

invites you to

Building Business Relationships: One Conversation at a Time

Personal connections are perhaps your most valuable business currency. Communication and networking guru Debra Fine shows leaders how to make every conversation, every interaction, count, with proven approaches to building rapport, cultivating community and making the personal connections that are so critical to success in business and as an organization.

Debra Fine

February 11, 2020

8:30-11:30am

Seawell Grand Ballroom at The Denver Center for the Performing Arts
14th and Curtis Streets
Denver, CO 80204

Complimentary Breakfast

The ability to influence others, to build consensus, to engage and motivate the people around you – all these critical leadership qualities stem from one thing: strong conversation skills. Via a fast-paced, interactive program, Fine gives people tools they can start using immediately to connect with and engage others, whether it's one-on-one or with a group.

Fine has spent the better part of two decades helping people in the business world become powerhouse communicators, influencers and motivators through a series of conversational and networking techniques that resonate in virtually any setting. Here's your chance to learn compelling communications from one of the world's most compelling communicators.

A former engineer, Fine is the author of the bestselling book, The Fine Art of Small Talk: How to Start a Conversation, Keep It Going, Build Networking Skills—and Leave a Positive Impression (Hachette), which has been published in more than two-dozen countries. From Google to JP Morgan Chase to the Texas Association of School Boards, she regularly works with business audiences in the for-profit, government and not-for-profit segments, and as a lead authority on communications in the workplace, appears frequently in a wide range of media outlets, including The Today Show, The Early Show, NPR Morning Edition, Fox Business News and CNN.

executiveforum.net

Register: Lea.Almagno@executiveforum.net